CHOICE

A new publication of interest to faculty members as well as to librarians is CHOICE: Books for College Libraries, a monthly book selection journal published by the Association of College and Research Libraries, a division of the American Library Association.

Many college teachers and librarians have long wished there were a journal that would give sound and timely advice on new books for the undergraduate libraries. CHOICE plans to publish brief, expert annotations for 2,000 to 3,000 titles each year. Books are being selected from American publications in the undergraduate arts and sciences curriculum, and they are evaluated by college faculty members currently engaged in undergraduate teaching at institutions throughout the country. Four numbers have been issued.

If any faculty member is interested in being a volunteer consultant for CHOICE and appraising new books in his field, write to:

Copies of CHOICE will be available in the Periodical Room, and members of the faculty are invited to make use of it as an aid in selection of materials for the library.
